A Guide for Assisting Students in Need

Working with students on a day-to-day basis provides rewarding experiences as well as unexpected challenges. Some of those unexpected challenges arise because students struggle with issues in their personal lives that may have the potential to impact our campus community. Many students need help with a problem at some point during their college careers, and many will turn to faculty or staff members they trust for that support.

It's with those students in mind that the Division of Student Affairs and the WCU Student Concern Response Team (SCRT) is providing this resource. Getting students the help they need before they're in crisis is a goal we are always working towards. Accordingly, the following information will help you assist students with issues, situations and problems they struggle to overcome.

Western Carolina University (WCU) has a broad array of services and resources that can help students manage their problems and work through difficult situations. This publication is intended to provide you with guidance and knowledge when responding to students who might share their problems or concerns. This is not an exhaustive or comprehensive resource for making diagnoses or providing therapy, rather it is a quick guide to aid you in your work with our students.

This publication is designed as a guide to assist you with evaluating the severity of the situation and the appropriate level of response. Information in red is for situations that are most critical, those incidents that are life threatening emergencies. Orange information is situations that may be urgent and need attention, either medical or psychological concerns. Yellow information is provided to assist with victims of violence, but is not an emergency or urgent situations.

Gray is information for assisting students with academic concerns, questions and services. Finally, purple information is to provide the reader with a quick reference guide for campus and community resources that can provide assistance.

When confronted with a distraught student, none of us should feel alone. This is a caring, collaborative academic community and all of us are working to help our students succeed. We hope this resource will make it easier to connect with one another and all the expertise available at Western Carolina University.

We want to thank you for caring for our students and for this campus community.

INTRODUCTION

IDENTIFYING A STUDENT CONCERN

A student concern is a situation or experience that inhibits the student's ability to function well in the university environment.

Interactions with students are a vital, essential part of being on a university campus, providing teachable moments to create an environment for learning which takes place both in and out of the classroom.

If a student's behavior becomes different from routine, normal, or expected interactions that may lead to disruption of classroom, a university activity, or cause concern of threat towards oneself and/or others, the situation elevates to a student concern.

If you believe there is an urgent situation with a student, and you are unsure what to do, Counseling & Psychological Services (CAPS) is available to consult with you and can be reached at 828.227.7469.

Faculty, staff, students, or others who are concerned about a student that is potentially dangerous to themselves or others, or is disruptive are encouraged to report or discuss the concern with an appropriate university representative. If you have a concern about a student, confidentiality laws do not prevent you from reporting the concern.

Please complete the online report form at scrt.wcu.edu. Click the Reporting Form Link located on the right. This is an open reporting system for anyone concerned about a student's wellbeing.

Share as much information as possible to assist in appropriate outreach. If there are questions you cannot answer, simply skip those entries. If you would like to first talk to someone about your concerns, call the Office of Student Affairs.

If the incident is an emergency, immediately call University Police at 828.227.8911.

REPORTING A STUDENT CONCERN

Whether the student is beginning their first semester, or completing their last, we encourage you to make a referral if you notice an issue with a student. By seeking to address students' needs early, appropriate interventions can help empower students to make choices that positively impact their academic success. Student concerns are addressed in two separate but related processes depending on whether the student concern is academic or non-academic in nature.

Reporting Systems

Academic concerns are managed via Navigate. Navigate is a web-based tool which WCU uses to coordinate, target, and report on advising, tutoring, and other student success services. Navigate can be accessed in myWCU.wcu.edu by clicking on the link for Advising/Tutoring.

Non-academic concerns are managed in the online platform, Maxient. Faculty, staff, students, family members, or anyone with a non-academic concern can submit their concern via Maxient. The form can be accessed via scrt.wcu.edu.

Issuing an Academic Alert:

1. Log on to myWCU.wcu.edu
2. Click on 'Advising/Tutoring' this will bring you to Navigate
3. Click on 'Issue an Alert' in the top, right-hand Actions section
4. Complete the required fields and click the submit button
5. An email will be sent to the individual issuing the alert to inform them the report was received. Reporting parties will also be notified about the outcome of the alert.

Please note: Students do not have access to alerts or any related comments.

Issuing a Non-Academic Alert:

1. Visit scrt.wcu.edu
2. Click on purple 'Report' button in right-hand side of page
3. Complete the fields as completely as possible and click the submit button
4. The alert will be assigned to the appropriate person or office depending on the reason for the report.
5. Due to confidentiality issues, reporting parties will not be notified about the outcome of the issue they report.

RESPONSE TEAMS

Student Concern Response Team

WCU utilizes a case-management based approach to report and provide support for students demonstrating behaviors of concern. Reports may be received through both of the university's reporting systems. The Student Concern Response Team (SCRT) meets regularly to confidentially share information and discuss students who may be experiencing difficulties.

SCRT is charged with coordinating efforts and appropriate services to students in need. These services can include but are not limited to Academic Services, Counseling & Psychological Services, Dean of Students, Office of Student Affairs, Health Services, Residential Living, and University Police.

Behavioral Assessment Team

WCU seeks to provide a safe and secure working and learning environment. Violence, threats, intimidation and possession of unauthorized weapons are inconsistent with this objective. It is the policy of WCU to promote civility and mutual respect and to prohibit violence in the university community.

The Behavioral Assessment Team was established under the directive of university policy 109 Campus/Workplace Violence Prevention and Management. The policy is located at: **dsa.wcu.edu/policy109**

The team is comprised of a core group of multi-disciplinary professionals who will analyze potentially threatening situations and advise administrators on recommended courses of action to mitigate risk to the campus.

URGENT MEDICAL ISSUES: ILLNESS OR INJURY

Over the course of a typical academic year, many students find themselves coping with an injury or illness, and in some situations, students are dealing with very serious problems.

Health Services in the Bird Building offers a variety of medical services for students at WCU. Medical providers can provide evaluation and management of many medical conditions and provide comprehensive health care for students.

Access to Health Services is funded by the Student Health Fee, and students do NOT have to be enrolled in the mandatory UNC System student health plan to receive care.

More serious problems may require specialist care and could result in the student choosing to seek health care at a hospital or health provider closer to home.

Students that require medical care can access Health Services through a variety of methods, including scheduling through the online patient portal, calling to schedule an appointment, or calling to speak to the triage nurse for a same day appointment. Requests for a same day appointment are prioritized by an RN through the phone triage process to determine the urgency of the care required.

Students that need medical care after normal business hours can access Campus EMS services or may choose to visit a local Urgent Care. The closest Emergency Department is located at Harris Regional Hospital in Sylva.

RECOGNIZING PSYCHOLOGICAL CONCERNS

In many cases in which a student is distressed, faculty and staff can provide important help through listening empathetically, facilitating an open discussion of problems, instilling hope, conveying acceptance, giving reassurance and offering basic advice.

Faculty and staff will become aware of a student who is in distress in various ways: direct observation of a student's behavior in the classroom, information provided by the student as part of a class assignment (e.g., a paper), communication via email explaining an absence, and/or conversations with a student.

Some students will need additional assistance to help overcome problems and to resume effective functioning. Please use this guide to help you respond to these students.

RESPONDING TO PSYCHOLOGICAL CONCERNS

Faculty and staff provide an essential role in assisting students to access necessary resources.

If you are concerned about a student, remember “CATS Care.”

Connect: Tolerate your own anxiety and awkwardness. Start a conversation with the student voicing your specific concerns. Acknowledge and validate that student’s distress.

Ask: Show that you care by asking questions about the student’s well-being and about potential risk. Be direct in these questions. Do not ask directly about suicide (“Have you thought about suicide?”).

Take Time: Let the student know that they are not alone. Be hopeful and be available.

Share: Share resources with the students. Share information with campus partners that will be able to assist the student. Do not be the only one to know.

Campus Resources:

CAPS provides emergency services for WCU students in addition to free counseling sessions. You may walk the student to CAPS and ask to see a counselor immediately if you believe the student is unable to wait for a regular appointment.

CAPS provides consultation services for faculty and staff. If you need assistance in approaching a student or help in deciding the best course of action in working with a student of concern, call CAPS.

VIOLENCE AND REPORTING

Responding to victims of violence and criminal activity is a very challenging and complex process. It is most critical that a caring intervention addresses all factors, with particular attention toward health and safety issues for all affected by the situation.

There are many resources on campus to assist you and students dealing with situations where there is a history or potential for violence.

Title IX Obligations

Western Carolina University is committed to providing an inclusive and welcoming environment and does not discriminate, or treat people differently on the basis of race; color; religion; sex; sexual orientation; gender identity or expression; national origin; age; disability; genetic information; political affiliation; and National Guard or veteran status.

- Any actions that demean, disgrace or embarrass a person may also be considered hazing.

Hazing can occur either on or off-campus. ## CHOOSING A MAJOR

Professional advisors can assist students with matters beyond course selection and registration. They help guide social and academic experiences in ways that will give students the skills to succeed beyond college. Students are encouraged to check in with their advisor often during the semester to discuss progress and questions.

Professional advisors are located in the Advising Center, 1st floor Killian Annex, and assist students who are undecided or changing their major. Students who wish to change or declare a major must meet with a professional advisor in the Advising Center for this change to take effect. Once a major is declared, a faculty advisor will be assigned to the student's record.

The Center for Career and Professional Development (CCPD) provides WCU students with the training and resources they need to prepare for a fulfilling career after college.

The CCPD assists students with career counseling, job searches, advice and assistance with choosing a major.

Students undecided about a major:

- The majority of the student population is undecided about choice of major.
- It's estimated that 60-75% of students change their major at least once in college for a variety of reasons.
- Students change majors for a variety of reasons: they realize they didn't like the subject matter as much as they enjoyed the way it was taught, a major is different from what they assumed, they realize their skills are not a good fit for the major, there are majors they never knew existed that are a better fit for their interests, etc.

Self-exploration is the course of action for students choosing to identify a potential major.

Encourage the student to:

- Make an appointment with CCPD staff via myWCU's Advising/Tutoring quicklink.
- Join Focus2 for self-assessments that recommend careers and majors based on the results.
- Utilize the Career Guide for self-exploration activities or our Major Maps for career exploration.
- Engage in our self-paced Canvas Career Collection that has modules in major and career exploration.
- These resources are found at careers.wcu.edu under "More Career Resources" at the bottom of the page.

Center for Career and Professional Development | 828.227.7133

CONCERNED ABOUT A CAREER

Students undecided about a career path:

- Many students will choose a major but need assistance with understanding traditional and nontraditional career paths.
- Students often associate the more well-known professions with their course of study and need assistance with career exploration to understand professions they did not know existed.
- Students will often need assistance in realizing that the path to a particular career is not necessarily linear. A major in “X” does not limit you to a profession in “Y.”

Students interested in gaining experience or employment:

- Students may want to clarify their career goals and utilize experiential learning opportunities to confirm their choices of major and occupational interests.
- Students may need assistance with developing a comprehensive job search utilizing various methods and resources.

Center for Career and Professional Development Tools

- Assessments: Available to assist students with identifying their interests, personality, values, abilities and relating that information to a major or career.
- The Center for Career and Professional Development website (careers.wcu.edu) is interactive and full of information and services available to students. The “Careers by Major” is one feature from the site that has information about WCU majors including a direct link to the appropriate academic department.

In the Spring of 2020, Non-Work Student On-Campus Student Employment transitioned to Human Resources. However, students can still use JobCat (jobcat.wcu.edu) to search for on- and off-campus jobs and internships.

SPECIAL OFFERINGS AND EVENTS:

The Center for Career and Professional Development offers career-related programs and events. Topics include: developing job search skills, resume, cover letter and reference preparation; preparing for the interview; mock interviewing through the online program, the Big Interview; etiquette events, career fairs, and on-campus interviewing. Students should visit the CCPD organization page in Engage for event details.

- Career Fairs: Several recruitment events are held annually on-campus giving students multiple opportunities to connect with potential employers.
- Internships/Co-ops: Information and instruction are available to students on the importance of gaining an internship.
- The Center for Career and Professional Development also has resources available online to identify potential opportunities.

FACING ACADEMIC CHALLENGES

Mathematics Tutoring Center (MTC)

The Mathematics Tutoring Center offers face-to-face Drop-in Tutoring, some face-to-face appointments, and some online appointments for math and computer science courses. Students can find the Drop-in schedule and instructions on how to set up appointments by going to <https://www.wcu.edu/learn/academic-success/tutoring-services/services-resources/mathematics-tutoring-center/index.aspx>. The Drop-in service is available from 9am-9pm Mondays through Thursdays, and from 9am-5pm on Fridays, while classes are in session and the university is open. Appointments may be offered within and outside of this schedule, and sometimes on weekends. Students, faculty, and staff who have any questions or concerns are encouraged to reach out to the MTC Director, Sibley Bryan, at 828-227.3830 and fsbryan@wcu.edu.

Writing and Learning Commons (WaLC)

The WaLC, located in Belk Building room 207, offers a variety of FREE services to help students achieve success in all of their classes. Students can make appointments for any of the following services in Navigate (<http://navigate.wcu.edu>). Students who need help to schedule an appointment should call 828-227-2274 or review the “How to Make an Appointment” guide at <https://tutoring.wcu.edu>.

- Course tutors are available for more than 130 courses across a range of disciplines.
- Writing tutors can help with any type of writing assignment and at any phase of the writing process, from brainstorming to putting the finishing touches on a final draft. Additionally, the WaLC’s online writing resources can help students with a variety of writing concerns, including how to avoid plagiarism, cite sources in APA, and avoid common grammatical errors.
- Writing fellows are writing tutors assigned to specific genres or styles of writing. A list of genres with assigned tutors can be found in the current tutor list in the Faculty Toolbox at tutoring.wcu.edu. Students may make appointments with writing fellows as they would with course tutors.
- Academic skills consultants (ASCs) meet one-on-one with students to help them develop good habits for note-taking, time management, study skills, test-taking, and reading. Students also can access the WaLC’s online Academic Success Tools to help them get organized, take better notes, and practice a growth mindset: <http://asc.wcu.edu>.
- Supplemental Instruction (SI) provides regularly scheduled study sessions for historically difficult courses. In SI sessions, students work together to improve content knowledge while learning the most effective ways to study.

GUIDING MILITARY VETERAN STUDENTS

In general, veteran students are mature women and men who possess a global perspective and a realistic view of the world.

They bring relevant real-life experience to the classroom and to the overall university experience. Their leadership skills have been honed to an instinctive level, and they are accustomed to being responsible for the welfare and safety of many. They have undergone intense and prolonged training, and they possess skills that are highly technical and widely- applicable.

While some veteran students strongly identify with their military past and readily share their experiences with new acquaintances, others wish to establish a new identity for themselves once they arrive on the college campus. Veterans often shun recognition and avoid the spotlight.

Many veteran students are virtually the same age as many of their college classmates, but their experiences are vastly different. For this reason, veterans often feel a lack of connection on campus. They can also become frustrated with students and professors who, in their view, are living sheltered lives. This impedes the ability of veterans to become fully engaged in their college experience.

The understanding of faculty, staff, and other students can go a long way toward helping veteran students make a successful transition from the military to college life.

Western Carolina has an active Student Veteran Association that organizes activities and provides peer support to veteran students. In addition, Military Student Services connects students with veteran counseling services and maintains a Veterans Resource Center to provide military students a place to meet and find education and career information

Our Veterans Resource Center, located on the second floor of the A.K. Hines University Center (UC), is a space dedicated to military affiliated students. Open the same hours as the UC, students are encouraged to use this space to study, connect with other military affiliated students, get information, and learn about resources.

SEEKING ACCOMMODATIONS

It is the mission of the Office of Accessibility Resources (OAR) to remove barriers and ensure equal access for all qualified students with disabilities, in keeping with WCU's core values and guiding principles of cultural diversity and equal opportunity.

There are two legal mandates that protect students with disabilities from discrimination and ensure equal access to all aspects of university life. Those laws include Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990 and its amendments.

Under these laws, Western Carolina University may not discriminate in the recruitment, admission, educational process, or treatment of students. Students who have self-identified, provided documentation of a disability, and requested reasonable accommodations are to receive approved modifications to programs, appropriate academic adjustments, or auxiliary aids that enable them to participate in and benefit from all educational programs and activities.

It is the student's responsibility to self-identify, provide documentation of a disability, and to request accommodations. All accommodations are approved on a case-by-case basis after reviewing the documentation and discussing and analyzing a student's individual needs.

The Accessible Information Management system (AIM) is an online accommodation management portal that facilitates interaction with the OAR, faculty, staff and students. This system protects confidential information about students and allows for streamlined communication between students, faculty and staff.

To register with the Office of Accessibility Resources and receive accommodations, students need to register through the New Student AIM Portal. (<https://elbert.accessiblelearning.com/s-WCU/>)

The student will then:

- Upload documentation of their disability into AIM. Documentation should be typed on letterhead stationery or be in a report format and should include the following:
  - A clearly stated diagnosis;
  - A description of how the condition was diagnosed;
  - A description of the student's current functional limitations in an academic and/or environmental setting;
  - The signature, printed name, title, professional credentials, and contact information of the evaluator; and
  - The date of the most recent evaluation.
- Meet with an OAR representative for an intake interview and analysis of needs.
- Work collaboratively with OAR to generate Accommodations Letters.
- Activate the Accommodation Letter and submit to their faculty member(s) through the Current Student AIM Portal.
- Make an appointment with their faculty member(s) as soon as possible to confidentially discuss how their accommodations will be managed.
- Collaborate with their faculty members(s) throughout the semester to address any issues or concerns and consult with the OAR as needed.

REQUESTING ABSENCE NOTIFICATION

As per the University General Attendance Policy all students are expected to attend all meetings of the courses in which they are enrolled. However, students may miss classes due to unforeseen circumstances. The Student Absence Notification process is designed to serve as a resource and central point of contact for students who, in a crisis situation, request that their instructors be notified of their absence.

NOTIFICATION OF ABSENCES DOES NOT EXCUSE STUDENTS FROM CLASSES and/or COURSE REQUIREMENTS. IN ALL CASES, INSTRUCTORS' ABSENCE POLICIES PREVAIL.

Only when appropriate documentation is submitted to the Office of Student Affairs regarding a student's extended absence, such as, serious illness, hospitalization, death or serious illness of immediate family member, or a crisis situation which threaten the student's academic progress, the Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs-Health & Wellness will review documentation. If the documentation supports the request, the student's instructors will be notified.

Both Health Services and Counseling & Psychological Services can provide a proof of visit or attendance verification upon request by students. This is not intended to be used as an absence request or absence notification, only proof of the visit.

Instructors will NOT be notified if an absence is less than four consecutive days or when an absence is for a non-crisis situation, such as minor illness, doctor's visit, dentist appointments, prearranged trips, court, etc. Students are responsible for communicating directly with their instructor (s) when they have been, or anticipate being, absent from class, and to arrange for completion of required work, including missed assignments and exams.

Should a student's illness or concern lead to a student or parental request for consultation, the student should schedule a meeting with the Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs-Health & Wellness in the Office of Student Affairs to discuss options and a plan of action.

Additional consultation should be with Academic Advising to ensure Student Academic Status, as well as, Financial Aid if student obtains aid or awards.

Academic Advising | 828.227.7753
Financial Aid | 828.227.7290
Office of Student Affairs | 828.227.7147

PURSuing A WITHDRAWAL

Students may find through the semester that circumstances are such that a withdrawal from a course or from the term/semester is necessary.

Withdrawing from the University after the start of the semester will result in a W in all ungraded courses. W's resulting from a University Withdrawal do not count toward the state-mandated limit for course withdrawals.

Withdrawing from all classes:

- Must be done before the Withdrawal Deadline published by the Registrar's Office.
- May result in a partial refund (see Refund Policy).
- Will affect satisfactory academic progress as related to academic standing and financial aid.
- May not be used to avoid penalty as the result of academic misconduct.

Failure to withdraw (abandonment) will result in a grade of F and affect both GPA and academic standing.

Course Withdrawal

After consultation with the Office of Student Retention and the instructor of the course, a student may withdraw from any course prior to the expiration of 60% of the term. Course withdrawals must be completed in MyWCU. Students are not permitted to withdraw from courses after 60% of the term, any exceptions must be approved by the Dean's Office of the College in which the course is located. Course withdrawals affect satisfactory academic progress which also affects academic standing. (See academic standing.) Course withdrawals do not count toward the twelve hours required for full-time enrollment and no refund is given.

University Term Withdrawal

A student may withdraw from the university through the last withdrawal date during the fall and spring semesters, as indicated by the Registrar's Office. During summer sessions, a University withdrawal occurs only if the student withdraws from all summer sessions. University withdrawals will affect satisfactory academic progress and course completion rates but will not count towards the student's 16-hour course withdrawal limit.

Three exceptions to the University withdrawal policy that will allow a student to withdraw from all courses. The exceptions are medical withdrawals, withdrawals for deployment or other military contingency, and withdrawals for extenuating circumstances.

Medical Letter of Support

Students seeking a withdrawal for medical reasons should contact the Office of Student Retention to discuss eligibility requirements and obtain instructions on seeking a letter of support for a medical or mental health withdrawal.

Students should be prepared to provide either Health Services or Counseling & Psychological services with medical record documentation of ongoing treatment during the course of the semester for which they wish to withdraw.

After review of medical documentation, the student will be notified, along with the Office of Student Retention of conditions are such that a Letter of Support can be provided to the student in support of the withdrawal request. The letter of support is not the actual withdrawal, final determination will be made in the Office of Student Retention.

Students will need to complete a University Withdrawal Form with the Office of Student Retention once documentation is approved.

REPRESENTING WCU WHILE TRAVELING

WCU students from all majors are encouraged to engage in meaningful, high-impact practices such as study abroad, internships and undergraduate research. Students across the university benefit from studying and interning outside the state and the country, many with exchange partner institutions in Europe, Asia, Latin America, the Middle East, and Africa.

Increasing knowledge of diversity as well as developing intercultural competence can be enhanced greatly by studying or interning abroad. Early collaboration with the Office of Global Engagement (WCU Global) can ensure this is a reality for all WCU students.

TYPES OF TRAVEL

- Student government officers are often involved in official meetings coordinated by the WCU Board of Trustees, the University of North Carolina General Administration, or the Associated Student Government of North Carolina.
- NCAA student-athletes represent WCU in the Southern Conference and travel under the supervision of the Athletics Department.
- Students participating in Campus Recreation Club Sports are not NCAA athletes but represent WCU in many sports.
- Students majoring in music or performing arts and/or students participating in various bands or choral groups travel as cultural ambassadors of WCU.
- Some students travel as part of research projects and/or attend conferences to present research and papers.
- Intern/externships in some academic programs require students to travel as part of their degree requirements.
- Students travel throughout the state and region on behalf of the university on recruiting trips for the Office of Admission.

Are student representatives allowed to miss classes and assignments due to their role as WCU representatives?

Students in these leadership roles and participating in these experiences are still held to the same academic standards and policies as any other student. However, these students are encouraged to meet with their professors and instructors before missing any classes or assignments to discuss their travel obligations and make appropriate arrangements. It's ultimately up to the individual faculty member as to whether any absence is excused or not.

How are student representatives able to balance their academic responsibilities with these activities?

Most students in these situations have a variety of additional support systems that help them stay focused and successful. But some students struggle to balance all these demands on their time and may need assistance. If a student discloses they are struggling, please refer the student to campus resources.
